

Committees of the Model United Nations

Political and Security Committee: deals with matters that relate to disarmament (e.g., of biological and chemical weapons and nuclear arms) and transfer of nuclear weapons. Conceptual issues, such as how to resolve political differences, are also addressed.

Special Political Committee: deals with specific (“high stakes”) political issues and special cases (e.g., Iraq, Israel, North Korea, etc.).

Economic and Financial Committee: deals with economic and financial matters (e.g., economic assistance, development, and the environment).

Social, Cultural, and Humanitarian Committee: deals with social, cultural, and humanitarian issues, including human rights and refugees.

Ad Hoc Political and Security Committee: deals with same issues as the Political and Security Committee, above. Resolutions submitted for the Special Political Committee will simultaneously be considered for the agenda of the Ad-Hoc Political and Security Committee.

Ad Hoc Special Political Committee: deals with same issues as the Special Political Committee, above. Resolutions submitted for the Special Political Committee will simultaneously be considered for the agenda of the Ad-Hoc Political Committee.

Ad Hoc Social, Cultural, and Humanitarian Committee: deals with same issues as the Social, Cultural, and Humanitarian Committee, above. Resolutions submitted for the Social, Cultural, and Humanitarian Committee will simultaneously be considered for the agenda of the Ad-Hoc Social, Cultural, and Humanitarian Committee.

UN Environment Programme: deals with driving transformational change on the triple planetary crisis: the crisis of climate change, the crisis of nature, land, and biodiversity loss, and the crisis of pollution and waste.

World Health Organization: deals with the world’s most pressing public health issues and emergencies, including disease prevention and control efforts; international standards for food, biological, and pharmaceutical products; and developing public opinions regarding general health.
